Jan Michael Looking Wolf:

A Path of Healing...

Jan Michael Looking Wolf is a member of the Confederated Tribes of Grand Ronde and resides close to his reservation in Western Oregon. He is a Kalapuya Native with Celtic decent. Crossing cultural boundaries with a blend of contemporary music, Native American Flute, and a positive message of equity for all people.

In spring of 1994, he suffered two large strokes from a very rare unknown genetic enzyme disorder and had blood clots pass through his heart and cause bleeding in the lungs. As a result from the strokes, he was paralyzed on the entire left side of his body. He received a miraculous healing and recovered 100% from the strokes.

Since then, Looking Wolf has become an accomplished recording artist and performer with 12 CDs and 2 DVDs released world wide on various Indie Record Labels - earning 19 National Award Recognitions. His prior work ranges from Solo Flute, blues, jazz, acoustic folk, to Indie Rock with a full band. In 2007, the CD Spreading Wings (w/ Linda Cole), climbed to no. 10 on the New Age Charts.

In 2008, "THE LOOKING WOLF PROJECT" becomes available. This highly anticipated Edgy Alternative Rock CD is being hailed as a breakthrough Album by the critics and includes music by the GRAMMY winning producer George Noriega and Sony Artist Keith Sommers. Noriega is known for producing such artists as Shakira, Jennifer Lopez, Ricky Martin, and Gloria Estephan.

With over 400 appearances across the country Jan Michael has become a well known performer—highlights include: Featured Performer at the 2007 NAMMYS, Co-headliner at 2006 Flute Quest with Mary Youngblood, Robert Mirabal, and Jeff Ball. He headlined the 2006 World Beat Festival, and performed at universities, casinos, and fairs across the nation. He has also played for the Oregon Governor, the EPA, Bureau of Indian Affairs, Tribal Leaders at the Oregon Tribal Summit, ONABEN, and a 7,000 person environmental conference in Portland, Oregon.

When not performing, Looking Wolf instructs native flute classes at Oregon State University where participants learn about the origins and history of native flutes from North America. This is the first class of its kind, making history and helping promote native culture. He also teaches "Native American Music", a course that offers a look at the roots and journey of music from Native American people.

The inspiring message of cultural equity and unity ring loud and clear in his music, "During the journey here, I have found it is true that we are all related...It is important to respect all cultures, after all, everyone and everything is born to the earth and sky."
